ADVISORY BUSINESS

MARTIN NELSON & CO., INC. HISTORY AND OWNERSHIP

MNCO was officially registered as a Corporation on April 4, 1954. We are a full-service broker/dealer offering stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and other commissioned products. We have been a registered investment advisor since 2013.

The principal owner is Martin O. Nelson, Jr.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF ADVISORY SERVICES

We offer our investment Advisory services through MNCO for our client's accounts held at our third-party custodians, Hilltop Securities ("HT") and Charles Schwab ("CHAS").

MNCO is registered as an investment advisor with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Registration does not imply a certain level of skill or training.

We provide the following service for our clients:

Portfolio Management Services: Our firm offers discretionary and non-discretionary continuous portfolio management services where the investment advice provided is tailored to meet the needs and investment objectives of the client. If you participate in our discretionary portfolio management services, we require you to grant our firm discretionary authority to manage your account. Discretionary authorization will allow our firm to determine the specific securities, and the amount of securities, to be purchased or sold for your account without your approval. Discretionary authority is typically granted by the client agreement you sign with our firm.

SERVICES TAILORED TO CLIENTS NEEDS

Our Advisor services are tailored to each individual client. Your Advisor will conduct a client profile to assess your current financial condition, evaluate your risk tolerance, establish suitable investment objectives, determine which classes of assets are most appropriate to achieve the objectives and allocate the funds into those assets. The client and Advisor will decide if the services to be provided will be discretionary or non-discretionary.

CLIENT ASSETS UNDER MANAGEMENT

As of March 2023, MNCO Advisors manages 172 million dollars of assets.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

FEE SCHEDULE

MNCO bases its fees on a percentage of the assets under management. There is a fee schedule. The fees are negotiable and may change as the value of the portfolio changes. Some clients may pay higher or lower fees than other clients depending on the size of the account, the amount of time a client has had an account with us, the total amount of business the client conducts with us and other relevant considerations.

Account Asset Value	Maximum Annual Fee
$50,000 - $2,000,000	1%
$2,000,001 - $3,000,000	0.9%
$3,000,001 - $ 5,000,000	0.85%
$5,000,001 and above	0.8%

The fee charged will be payable, in arrears, on a calendar quarterly basis, and will be calculated based upon the average daily balance of the account, as determined by MNCO. Each quarterly payment will be due and payable out of the clients account during the month following the last day of the calendar quarter to which such valuation relates. The fee for the calendar quarter in which Client's Account is established will be prorated based on the number of days remaining in that calendar quarter after establishment of the account. In the event that Client's Account is terminated before the end of a calendar quarter, a prorated amount will be charged to the account based on the number of days of the quarter the client's account was held at MNCO.

The client will be sent a written invoice, including the fee, the formula used to calculate the fee, the fee calculation itself, the time period covered by the fee, and, if applicable, the amount of assets under management on which the fee was based. The Advisor will send these to the client concurrent with the request for payment of the advisory fees. We urge the client to compare this information with the fees listed in the account statement.

With your account at MNCO you will pay a transaction fee in addition to the quarterly fee. Your advisor does not receive any portion of the transaction fee.

TERMINATION OF CONTRACT

Your contract may be terminated by either you or your Advisor. If the contract is terminated prior to the last day of the calendar quarter, then the quarterly fee will be adjusted to the actual days the account was serviced. In the event the account was prepaid, the fee will be reimbursed for the days the account was not under agreement. Upon termination, you are responsible for monitoring the securities in your account and MNCO will have no further obligation.

MUTUAL FUNDS

We recommend no-load mutual funds for Advisory clients. In the event these funds are recommended, we may receive sales compensation via their execution through MNCO. Receipt of these forms of additional compensation may be a conflict of interest in that it could be an incentive for your portfolio manager to recommend products for your account based upon the amount of additional compensation they receive. We will supervise your account to assure that any recommendations made are in accordance with your investment objectives and goals. On occasion you may receive communications from us to confirm that the activity in your account is in accordance with your instructions and that you are aware of the additional compensation being paid.

INVESTOR OPTIONS

You are not obligated to purchase a recommended investment from us. You always have the option to purchase it from other brokers or agents.

In general, a more actively traded account may cost less under a fee agreement and an account which is traded infrequently may cost more under a fee agreement.

An investment advisor shall deliver the materials required by this section to an Advisory client or prospective Advisory client (i) not less than forty-eight hours prior to entering into any investment Advisory contract with such client or prospective client, or (ii) at the time of entering into any such contract, if the Advisory client has a right to terminate the contract without penalty within five business days after entering into the contract.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

MNCO does not charge performance based fees. Our fees are not based on a share of the capital gains or the capital appreciation of managed securities.

MNCO does not use a performance-based fee structure because of the potential conflict of interest. Performance-based compensation may create an incentive for the Advisor to recommend an investment that may carry a higher degree of risk to the client.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

MNCO provides investment advice to individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, retirement plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations and businesses.

Client relationships vary in size and length of time with us.

MNCO does not impose a minimum account size. Each account is evaluated individually.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

METHODS OF ANALYSIS

Once the client profile, financial condition, investment objectives and risk tolerance have been determined, MNCO will utilize various methods of analysis including charting, fundamental analysis, technical analysis and cyclical analysis.

The main sources of information include financial newspapers and magazines, research materials prepared by others, annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, press releases, Morningstar, Value Line, SchwabLink and other online sources.

CHARTING

Charting is a technical analysis that charts the patterns of stocks, bonds and commodities to help determine buy and sell recommendations for clients. It is a way of gathering and processing price and volume information in a security by applying mathematical equations and plotting the resulting data onto graphs in order to predict future price movements. A graphical historical record assists the analyst in spotting the effect of key events on a security's price, its performance over a period of time and whether it is trading near its high, near its low or in between. Chartists believe that recurring patterns of trading commonly referred to as indicators, can help them forecast future price movements.

FUNDAMENTAL ANALYSIS

Fundamental analysis is a method of evaluating a company or security by attempting to measure its intrinsic value. In other words, fundamental analysts try to determine its true value by looking at all aspects of the business, including both tangible factors (e.g., machinery, buildings, land, etc.) and intangible factors (e.g., patents, trademarks, "brand" names, etc.). Fundamental analysis also involves examining related economic factors (e.g., overall economy and industry conditions, etc.), financial factors (e.g., company debt, interest rates, management salaries and bonuses, etc.), qualitative factors (e.g., management expertise, industry cycles, labor relations, etc.), and quantitative factors (e.g., debt-to-equity and price-to-equity ratios).

TECHNICAL ANALYSIS

This method of evaluating securities analyzes statistics generated by market activity, such as past prices and volume. Technical analysts do not attempt to measure a security's intrinsic value, but instead use charts and other tools to identify patterns that can suggest future activity. Technical analysts believe that the historical performance of stocks and markets are indications of future performance.

CYCLICAL ANALYSIS

Cyclical analysis looks at recurring periods of expansion and contraction that can impact a company's profitability and cash flow. There are a variety of cycles that can be examined and some are more commonly known than others, such as a four-year presidential cycle or annual/quarterly fiscal reporting cycles. Identifying cycles can help to anticipate tops and bottoms and also to determine trends. But sometimes cycles don't repeat themselves, sometimes they overlap and sometimes they offset each other. Cyclical stocks tend to rise quickly when the economy turns up and fall quickly when the economy turns down (e.g., housing, automobiles, telecommunications, paper, etc.). Non-cyclical industries (e.g., food, insurance, drugs, healthcare, etc.) are not as directly impacted by economic changes.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

All investments carry a certain degree of risk. This risk may be mitigated by a diversified asset allocation. When implementing investment advice to clients, our representatives employ the following investment strategies:

- Long term purchases - securities held at least one year.
- Short term purchases - securities sold within one year.
- Trading - securities sold within 30 days.
- Margin transactions - investor pays for part of the purchase and borrows the rest from a brokerage firm; for example, investor buys $5,000 worth of stock in a margin account by paying for $2,500 and borrowing $2,500 from a brokerage firm. Clients cannot borrow stock.
- Option writing - includes covered options, uncovered options or spreading strategies. Note: options are contracts giving the purchaser the right to buy or sell a security, such as stocks, at a fixed price within a specific period of time.

RISK OF LOSS

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear, including loss of your original principal. You should be aware that past performance of any security is not necessarily indicative of future results. Therefore, you should not assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable. We do not provide any representation or guarantee that your goals will be achieved.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss. Further, depending on the different types of investments, there may be varying degrees of risk:

- Interest rate risk - fluctuations in interest rates can influence investment prices. For example, if interest rates rise the yields on existing bonds can become unattractive and cause their market value to decline
- Market risk - the value of a security can be influenced by political, economic and social conditions independent of the security's underlying circumstances. This is often referred to as systemic risk.
- Inflation risk - the uncertainty over the future real value (after inflation) of your investment, and the possible erosion of purchasing power.
- Currency risk or exchange rate risk - this arises from the potential change in the exchange rate of one currency in relation to another.
- Liquidity risk -liquidity is the ability to readily convert your investment into cash.

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

In connection with the SEC's Municipal Continuing Disclosure Cooperative Initiative (MCDC), MNCO's affiliated broker-dealer voluntarily self-reported certain matters related to its underwritings of certain Municipal Securities Offerings. The firm participated in the SEC's industry-wide MCDC initiative pertaining to compliance with SEC rule 15C2-12. The firm agreed to cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and any future violations of Section (17)A(2) of the Securities Act, paid a civil money penalty of $100,000 and will comply with the undertakings enumerated in the Offer of settlement.

OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

MARTIN NELSON & CO., INC. is both a registered broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission a state-registered broker-dealer and a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority as well as a Registered Investment Advisor with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Registered Representatives are separately licensed in their capacity as brokers. These individuals, in their capacity as brokers, can effect securities transactions for which they will receive separate, yet customary compensation.

Clients should be aware that the receipt of additional compensation in our capacity as brokers creates a conflict of interest that may impair the objectivity of our firm and these individuals when making Advisory recommendations. Martin Nelson & Company, Inc. endeavors at all times to put the interest of its clients first as part of our fiduciary duty. We take the following steps to address this conflict:

- We generally prohibit the receipt of both commissions and fees for managed accounts;
- We disclose to clients that they are not obligated to purchase recommended investment products from our employees or affiliated companies;
- We collect, maintain and document accurate, complete and relevant client background information, including the client's financial goals, objectives and risk tolerance;
- Our firm's representatives and supervisors conduct regular reviews of client accounts and all transactions to verify that recommendations made to a client are suitable for the client's needs and circumstances;
- We require that our employees seek prior approval of any outside employment activity so that we may ensure that any conflicts of interests in such activities are properly addressed;
- We periodically monitor these outside employment activities to verify that any conflicts of interest continue to be properly addressed by our firm;
- We educate our employees regarding the responsibilities of a fiduciary, including the need for having a reasonable and independent basis for the investment advice provided to clients.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

According to the Investment Advisors Act of 1940, an investment Advisor is considered a fiduciary. As a fiduciary, it is an investment Advisor's responsibility to provide fair and full disclosure of all material facts known to the Advisor. In addition an investment Advisor has a duty of utmost good faith to act solely in the best interest of each of its clients. MNCO has adopted a Code of Ethics and a standard of Business Conduct. This Code of Ethics sets out ideals for ethical conduct premised on fundamental principles of openness, integrity, honesty and trust. It conveys to employees the value that MNCO places on ethical conduct and challenges employees to live up, not only to the letter of the law, but also to the ideals of the organization.

MNCO and its employees may buy or sell securities or have an interest or position in a security for their personal account, which they also recommend to clients. MNCO is and shall continue to be in compliance with the Insider Trading and Securities Fraud Enforcement Act of 1988. As these situations may represent a potential conflict of interest, it is a policy of MNCO that no representative shall prefer his/her own account to that of the Advisory client. MNCO and its employees may buy or sell securities that are also held by our clients. Advisors should not trade their own securities ahead of a client.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

MNCO renders investment advice to its clients on a nondiscretionary and discretionary basis, pursuant to client's Advisory agreement. In MNCO's Advisory programs you will generally appoint MNCO as sole and exclusive broker for execution transactions, this relationship is referred to as directed brokerage.

MNCO will also be a clearing firm with HT or CHAS acting as custodian of your account. Through directed brokerage, MNCO may have benefits where it requires a client to utilize the services of an affiliated broker/custodian.

Not all investment advisors who are dually registered as broker dealers or who have affiliated broker-dealers require their clients to use the advisor's broker dealer to execute transactions. By using MNCO as the broker dealer (directed brokerage), we may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions, and this practice may cost clients more money.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Each Advisor monitors the asset allocation reports and performance of their own client accounts at least quarterly to determine when changes are needed. The Chief Compliance Officer performs periodic reviews of client accounts. Conditions may trigger a more frequent review if there are changes in a client's situation or new financial information is received.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

MNCO has been fortunate to receive many client referrals over the years from current clients, attorneys, accountants, employees, personal friends and others. We do not compensate referring parties for their referrals.

We do not receive any other compensation.

CUSTODY

Custody has been defined as having access or control over client funds and/or securities but does not include the ability to execute transactions in client accounts. All assets are held at qualified custodians.

Martin Nelson & Co., Inc. uses both Charles Schwab and Hilltop Securities as their custodian for all clients. Although we do not have custody, we have established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at HT or CHAS in a separate account for each client under that client's name. You will receive, at a minimum, from HT or CHAS, a quarterly statement containing information regarding your account and the value of the assets under management. You should carefully review those statements. If you have any questions about your account statements, you should contact us or your own advisor.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

MNCO provides each client with a Client Account Agreement with the terms and conditions of the agreement in writing. In order to manage accounts efficiently and execute trades beneficial to all accounts, MNCO utilizes investment discretion. The Discretionary Client Account Agreement gives the advisor the discretionary power and authority to buy, sell or otherwise effect transactions in stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other securities on margin, or otherwise, for your account and in your name without consulting with you prior. If the client wants to direct transactions in their account independent from the advice of their advisor, those transactions will be marked "unsolicited" and executed if there are no ethical or legal issues or conflicts of interest.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

MNCO does not perform proxy voting services on your behalf. You are instructed to read through the information provided with the proxy voting documents and to make a determination based on the information provided. However, your Advisor may provide recommendations to you if assistance is requested. If a conflict of interest exists, this will be disclosed.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

MNCO is financially capable of meeting all contractual commitments to clients. A balance sheet is not required because we do not serve as a custodian for client funds or securities and we do not require prepayment of fees of more than $500 per client, six months or more in advance.
